Subject: Press release

Anglo Parts, together with several British classic car clubs and garages, is organising the first edition of the British Car Day, this time on Saturday 20 April 2024. From 09:30 - 16:00 at Anglo Parts Mechelen. Thanks to our central location, right next to the motorway, we are easy to reach.

We would like to cordially invite you to what will be the British classic car event of the year. This year, our British Car Day is dedicated to sustainability, hence our slogan "Classic But Sustainable".

Classic cars are seen as the smelly four-wheelers of the automotive industry. However, this story is not as black and white as it seems. So proves a study by a leading insurer (Footman James) in the UK, which published a survey on the use and consumption of today's classic car owner.

More info on this research can be found on the event website, www.britishcarday.org.

All classic car owners are welcome to attend the event with their classic car, but we are also inviting some "special" vintage cars that are not seen so much on the streets.

Of course, non-UK classic cars are also more than welcome.
